ConnectedHealth Brings on Leading Medical Device Makers to Provide Wireless Patient Care Solutions

ConnectedHealth announced partnerships with three leading wireless health device manufacturers. Under the terms of the agreements, A&D Medical, Entra and Nonin Medical will provide, respectively, wireless weight scales and blood pressure monitors; wireless glucose meters and wireless pulse oximeters that operate on ConnectedHealth's eHealth platform.

The eHealth Platform from ConnectedHealth integrates into a health care provider's existing patient management systems and enables wireless patient monitoring -- at a cost of 25 percent less than existing wireless health solutions. ConnectedHealth is the first to leverage standard connectivity technology to provide support for third-party devices.
