

ConnectedHealth Brings on Leading Medical Device Makers to Provide Wireless Patient Care Solutions

According to Mike Holt, CEO for ConnectedHealth, "Ensuring seamless connectivity with no patient involvement, requires compatible and integrated wireless devices. With A&D Medical, Nonin Medical and Entra medical devices, the ConnectedHealth eHealth platform seamlessly connects patients to their care givers, enabling them to more easily comply with their caregiver's instructions without the added effort of traveling to the health care facility."

"With ConnectedHealth and the A&D UA-767PBT and A&D UC-321PBT weight scales, patients measure their blood pressure and weigh themselves just as they normally would," noted Teruhisa Moriya, president and CEO for A&D. "The difference now is that the patient's care provider also sees these measurements simplifying the process and making the concept of eHealth a reality."
